Horoscope

THIS IS YOUR LIFE

By TRENT VARRO

DON'T PAY TO HAVE YOUR HOROSCOPE READ
— READ IT HERE !!!

ARIES—March 21 to April 20
There is a slightly "heavy" aspect hanging over your chart at this time. However, you may be given a sign of Cancer will, in some form or other, see some surprising developments very shortly.

TAURUS—April 21 to May 20
Writing, publishing and clear thinking are all in the bag for Taurus persons during this period. In other words, people in the communications field have much to gain.

GEMINI—May 21 to June 20
Your solar chart is becoming extremely good. It's pretty safe to say that all persons born in the sign of Cancer will, in some form or other, see some surprising developments very shortly.

CANCER—June 21 to July 21
Your solar chart is becoming extremely good. It's pretty safe to say that all persons born in the sign of Cancer will, in some form or other, see some surprising developments very shortly.

LEO—July 22 to August 21
You may be faced with much added responsibility at this time, but it's a wonderful time to "better yourself." Some chance occurrence from out of the blue, should present itself shortly.

VIRGO—August 22 to Sept. 21
An extremely "lucky" period for Virgo persons. This will affect you most strongly if you happen to be born in the first two weeks of Virgo. If your birthday falls in the last half of this cycle, the "luck" will come a little later.

LIBRA—Sept. 22 to Oct. 22
The astrological chart for the sign Libra is wonderful, unless you were born in the last few days of the sign. If this is the case, things surrounding you may seem to be a little mixed-up.

SCORPIO—Oct. 23 to Nov. 21
The next week could mark a real surprise for the better in your daily living conditions; but, a word of warning! Don't let your mind wander far afield. You could quite easily overlook some trivial detail.

SAGITTARIUS—Nov. 22 to Dec. 20
Some good and some poor aspects are surrounding this sign at the present time. On the whole, a vision of "things to come" can be put to great advantage now. If you can "keep your head."

CAPRICORN—Dec. 21 to Jan. '9
A real stroke of luck may come your way. Use the benefits you receive here to further yourself in this wide-world world. Petty grievances should disappear like magic in your daily living.

AQUARIUS—Jan. 21 to Feb. 18
This could possibly be a rather "touchy" week for you. Don't let it bother you to much. Think things out carefully, before acting on impulses. Much gain can come to you later, if you use your head.

PISCES—Feb. 19 to Mar. 20
The solar chart for Pisces is not too promising at the moment. The whole world may seem to be "against" you and your ideas. This is indeed unfortunate, as some of your ideas possess great merit.

Spending Money In The Matter Of Minutes

Over the years we have brought to our reader's attention the manner in which government's spend your money and the Olympic time in which they record expenditures which are fantastic in proportions.

By glancing over Hansard for the past years we have come up with the following facts.

It's a mean thing to do in reminding you . . .

. . . but do you remember sweating through your income tax return this Spring? How long it took and how frustrating you found it?

. . . or if you had an accountant do the actual calculating of the tax, how you had to put all the pertinent information together for him?

Remember? Sure you do.

Well, you'll be happy to know that the money you and precisely 7,641,730 other taxpayers — by the least head-count in National Revenue's Green Book of tax statistics—paid the federal government was rubber-stamped in just five frenzied hours by the House of Commons for blank cheque spending.

Blank cheque, because the Commons voted through $15 billion in government spending estimates blindfolded.

If anyone had a clue as to how—except under broad general headings—and where, or why on what, by or for whom, they weren't telling.

The spending of those billions of dollars was rubber-stamped in a series of 43 separate votes which started at 10 p.m., and ended five hours later at 3 a.m.

Now again, please remember. . .

. . . remember, through recent years the rising concern over narcotics, the horror of how the use of both hard and so-called "soft" drugs is becoming a corrupted way-of-life with an increasing number of young people. How a royal commission, among other learned bodies, has been trying to grapple with the problem and still confesses it hasn't found out how?

Well, you'll be reassured to know that one of those 43 votes the Commons machine-gunned through covered an item on narcotics—presumably to finance research on how drugs are to be better controlled.

Presumably, because nobody explained.

Here, from the Hansard record is what happened on that vote.

Treasury Board President C. M. Drury moved "that vote five, in the amount of $4,698,000 of the department of National Health and Welfare for non-commercial use of drugs—program expenditures for the fiscal year ending (next) March 31 be concurred in."

Mr. Speaker: "Is it the pleasure of the House to adopt the motion?"

Some Honourable Members: "Agreed."

An Honourable Member: "On division."

Mr. Speaker: "I declare the motion carried on division. Motion agreed to."

Short and sweet, eh?

But shucks, you say, what's $3,698,000 these days?

Well, it just so happens National Revenue's Green Book on tax statistics say that it's almost as much as the total $4,788,000 taxable income of all the elderly or retired living in the Halifax region.

So it's something.

But that $4,698,000 vote that whizzed through with no questions asked was only one of the 43 worth a total $16 billion.

When the exhausted Commons—they had been sitting for 13 straight hours, five of them occupied with the 43 votes—protested the futility of it, Acting Prime Minister Mitchell Sharp pooh-poohed and tish-tushed them.

The Commons committees—there are 21 of them—had given these $16 billion of estimates the "closest scrutiny ever," he soothed.

Close, like the six hours one committee had spent examining State Secretary Peletier's $1 billion estimate covering such controversial agencies as Information Canada, Company of Young Canadians, Opportunities for Youth, and yes, the CBC. New Democratic MP David Orlinov of Winnipeg had kept a clock on the committee.

And close like the two hours Maritime Conservative MP Donnie MacInnis claimed—and was not contradicted by anyone—Works Minister Dube had spent explaining his departmental spending program involving $368 million to another committee.

It used to be, before Prime Minister Trudeau emasculated Parliament by sidetracking scrutiny of government spending from the Commons itself to its committees, that sometimes—not always—there was some searching examination of where all the tax money goes.

But that was in the nit-picking days, as the government now calls them, when good, grey Howard Green, the crusty Conservative from Vancouver, could—and did—hold up the House for days until he got a satisfactory accounting of as little as a $1 item.

The Things My Readers Say!

With the best intentions in the world to do so, I never quite got around to answering all my mail. There always seems to be some domestic or other crisis that interferes.

In almost every case, the letters I get are both friendly and interesting. The exceptions are business letters and bill collectors. Form letters and promotional letters I don't even read: just tear them once across and toss into the logical depository — the garbage pail.

Anyway, this column seems to get around quite a bit, and the letters pile up, and I keep making new resolutions to answer them and the pile keeps growing. If my wife would leave me for a month, and I worked eight hours a day, I could clean them all up and start a new life, relieved of guilt and shame.

Just to give you an idea here's a cross-sampling. Just got a card from The Bobsey Twins, Regina and Kath. Postmark: Venice. They're two former students. When they were in Grade 13, and I couldn't find a boy to clean up the estate, they took it on, and did the best job I've ever had done. Unlike boys, who don't get into the corners, they crawled into the bushes and dragged out leaves with their bare hands. They gathered forty plastic garbage bags of leaves and twigs. I gave them their pay and an illegal beer and we've been buddies ever since. According to the card, they've covered seven countries in three weeks and are now heading for Spain. Poor old Madrid.

Here's a letter from R. F. Stelman, County Wicklow, Eire. An excerpt: "Your column holds for me a note of sanity in a mad world and ranks in my mind with Greg Clark." Double thanks, R. F. Greg Clark is about six tiers above me, but I appreciate the sentiment. Mr. Stelman went to high school with my older brother and sister.

Just grabbed another one from the heap. Holy snakes, it's dated Feb. 1971. Thomas A. Smith, Rouleau, Sask. He noticed a reference in the column to Calumet Island, in the Ottawa River, where my mother was born. He was born there too and remembers Smileys in Shawville, Que., where my dad once ran a store. It's a long, interesting letter from a real old-timer who went west in 1910, at the age of 17, went overseas in World War I. Mr. Smith, I hope you are well, though you must be 80, and I'll write a proper letter.

Here's another, from White Plains, New York. Holy Old Hughie! Dated June 24th, 1969. It's from a Leslie Hill, Captain, Army Nurse Corps, U.S. Army Reserve (retired). Born in Fergus, Ont.,

three score years ago, graduate of Kingston (Ont.) General Hospital, served in World War II and Korea, and read my column to a group of Negroes in the laundry room. How about that? Letter ends, "Thanks for your column, dull or not."

Here's a self-addressed envelope from Mrs. Walter E. Dorset, Smiley, Sask. But I can't find the letter. And another one from Gordon Fairgrieve, publisher of the Observer, Hartland, N.B. He has a subscriber called Bill Smiley, who lives in Massachusetts, and asks that I drop him a line. I will, Bill and Gordon.

A note from G. R. McCrea, publisher of the Herald, Hanna, Alta. He agrees it's a mad, mad world, has been forty years in the newspaper "game," started at $5 a week, and recalls with nostalgia: "For $5 in those days you could take your best girl to the local dance, but a miskey of rotgut rye, and still have money enough to buy the gal a lunch at midnight, and some left over for a package of roll-your-owns on Monday. Boy, was that tear livin'." Thanks, G. R., for a grand letter.

From a lady in Bowmanville. She thanks me for my salute to the housewife, and has some good advice: "I have learned, slowly, never criticize what someone's doing unless you have tried it yourself." And it turns out the lady lived next door for eight years to the lady who wrote me a beautiful letter from New Zealand.

In a column this summer, I compared my wife to that bird, the flicker. Ron Cumming writes from Port Elgin, comparing husbands to bobolinks. "Before marriage, the bobolink has a beautiful, slick, yellow-striped suit and sings a mate-enticing Bbo-link—a-link—a-link. After marriage, in late summer, he dresses in dull brown, and his song is merely a dull 'chuk.' As a middle-aged hubby, I keep seeing a parallel."

Whoops! It's not all sweetness and light. Just reached and read two letters giving me hell. I must have written a snarly column about teenagers back in 1970, for one of the letters is dated then. One is from a teenager, unsigned, blasting me in no uncertain terms. The other is from a senior citizen, Mrs. Jessie Slater of Bracebridge. One pungent comment: "You must be a Dagwood at home, and a rotten father. How else could you have such a mixed-up family?" Well, Mrs. Slater, my mixed-up daughter happens to be living in Bracebridge right now, and I've a good notion to call and tell her to go over and give you a good punch in the nose.

I'm kidding, Mrs. Slater. Wim wouldn't step on an ant, if she could avoid it. She's a delightful, compassionate, beautiful and intelligent young woman, who is no more mixed-up than you and I.

And I'm no Dagwood. When I put my foot down around here ... I break a toe.

Well, all I wanted to say was that you meet a lot of interesting people in this business.
